clothing, warm clothing, sun glasses, ski goggles, gloves, sunscreen, notebook, pencil.

Participation to the test will not be allowed without the complete equipment.

Introductory meeting: All accepted candidates will be informed of the place and time of the introductory meeting.

Test structure: The Safety Test shall be composed of two parts including five compulsory modules, each of which is subject to individual evaluation. The Safety Test shall assess the safety-related knowledge and skills of the candidates by means of a theoretical exam and a practical exam. If a candidate fails one or more of these modules or if the Safety Test does not include all of the modules, they must re-sit the test in its entirety. The content of the various modules is set out below.

The theoretical exam: Make an emergency call in the language of the host country to the local rescue services after an avalanche accident'. The theoretical exam shall be successfully completed, where the emergency call has been made to rescue services in a clear and comprehensible manner and by providing accurate information enabling them to perform their duties.

The practical exam: The off-piste practical exam consists of avalanche forecast analysis, group guiding and one of three modules focusing on meteorology, mountain hazards or snowpack analysis. Part of the practical exam is also the search and rescue of two people buried under an avalanche. The practical exam must be taken in one of the official languages of the Member State in which the exam is held.

The three modules on group guiding last 15 minutes each, with an additional 15 minutes for preparation in each. These teaching modules are passed if at least 75% of the assignments are satisfactorily completed.

Complete information about the test can be found in the DELEGATED COMMISSION REGULATION (EU) 2019/907 (https://eur-lex.europa.eu/legal-content/EN/TXT/?uri=uriserv:OJ.L_.2019.145.01.0007.01.ENG).
